

Opportunities to Sponsor at ASC 2026

Sponsors and exhibitors are an integral part of the Applied Superconductivity Conference and the Applied Superconductivity community more broadly, serving as a source of networks and knowledge for the participants. The conference has also historically been a key location for connecting sponsors and exhibitors with the talent pool of upcoming graduates and early career researchers, especially at this time of skills shortages.

On behalf of the Applied Superconductivity community, it is our pleasure to invite you to sponsor the 2026 Applied Superconductivity Conference to be held at the David L. Lawrence Convention Center in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania from September 6 - 11, 2026.

The Applied Superconductivity Conference (ASC) will be the biggest and most diverse scientific meeting of the international applied superconductivity community in 2026. The ASC attracts the key leaders and researchers in all the major fields that support and develop superconducting technologies around the globe. It provides a unique forum for discussions within specialist topic areas and opportunities for researchers from academia, government, industry, and the commercial sector to keep up to date in areas such as quantum engineering and superconducting electronics, materials and large-scale applications.

The four-and-a-half-day program includes plenary lectures, parallel sessions, poster sessions, exhibitions, professional development, student engagement, an exhibitor reception, and an incredible conference event at the Carnegie Museum, all of which provide a variety of stimulating settings for attendees to increase and update their knowledge.

We hope that you will consider being a highly valued sponsor to our conference and look forward to welcoming you to Pittsburgh.
